Institutional Distinctiveness

“Discipline is the bridge between goals and accomplishment.” is a famous quote by Jim Rohan. Realizing this, the six-decade old institution steadfastly inculcates the value of discipline in the students. The motto of the institution inscribed in the College Emblem also emphasizes the virtue of discipline - character building, spreading the light of knowledge and reaching greater heights. Educational ideals of the institution are symbolized in the motto inscribed in the College Emblem. Admission into the college is sought from far and wide solely for the reason that the college imparts strict disciplinary ideals to students. The college lays special emphasis on value-based education. A special committee is formed to ensure peaceful and disciplined life in the college campus. The committee keeps a vigilant watch over student’s behaviour and strictly warns them against any undisciplined behaviour. Students who misbehave are directed to the Counselling Forum of the institution where they are positively guided and thoroughly counselled to behave in a well-disciplined manner.

Discipline is fostered by engaging students in various service forum activities of NSS, NCC, YRC, RRC, Extension Service Forum, Social Service League, Women Empowerment Cell etc. Communal Harmony Club and Life Style Club cultivates and inculcates good behaviour of students. Special attention is paid to make students dress modestly by pinning their shawls and they are abstained from wearing leggings. The practice of insisting the final year and Post Graduate students to wear sarees on Fridays was well appreciated and most welcomed by parents as they feel that students are well trained to adhere to the Tamil culture. Students also wear sarees on special occasions like Pongal celebration, Farewell and Candle Lighting Ceremony and parents have registered their feedback that students imbibe modesty when they wear the traditional attire. The habit of maintaining absolute silence during Prayer conducted through Central Announcement system is a sign of success of discipline maintenance. Students also keep up decorum and well-disciplined demeanour during public gatherings.

True to the quote of Roy L. Smith, "Discipline is the refining fire by which talent becomes ability", the strict adherence to discipline never curtails the academic and extra-curricular achievements of students, but aids in augmenting their talents. The institution honours and appreciates the students who procure 100% attendance and the Best Library user and thereby encourages their disciplined deportment. Hence, the institutional distinctiveness of imparting discipline to students is indeed the secret behind the success of producing thousands of self-confident and self-supporting citizens.
